

Introduction to template module

- Template module is useful to create template files with variables, conditions and loops – where we replace the variable values dynamically
- Sometime configuration file is same for your application which is deployed on managed nodes except some lines/values, so those lines/values we can replace dynamically with the help of template module by creating a template